Upon booking a journey, the recommendation is to go to any of the network's buildings. In the helicopter garages, one enters with a car (one's own) and exits with another provided by the helicopter company. The latter then heads to the actual start building.

In another - possibly concurrent model - the helicopter company has its own car rental company.